Frans B. M. de Waal

Emory University

Dr. Frans B. M. de Waal is a Dutch-born ethologist/biologist known for his work on the social intelligence of primates. His first book, Chimpanzee Politics (1982) compared the schmoozing and scheming of chimpanzees involved in power struggles with that of human politicians. Ever since, de Waal has drawn parallels between primate and human behavior, from peacemaking and morality to culture. His scientific work has been published in hundreds of technical articles in journals such as Science, Nature, Scientific American, and outlets specialized in animal behavior. His popular books - translated into fifteen languages - have made him one of the world’s most visible primatologists. His latest books are Our Inner Ape (2005, Riverhead) and Primates & Philosophers (2006, Princeton). De Waal is C. H. Candler Professor in the Psychology Department of Emory University and director of the Living Links Center at the Yerkes National Primate Center, in Atlanta, Georgia. He has been elected to the National Academy of Sciences (US), the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the Royal Dutch Academy of Sciences. In 2007, Time selected him as one of the World’s 100 Most Influential People Today.

Martin Daly & Margo Wilson

McMaster University, Canada

Margo Wilson and Martin Daly are professors in the Department of Psychology, Neuroscience & Behaviour at McMaster University in Hamilton, Canada. Trained in the study of nonhuman animal behavior, they have brought a Darwinian perspective to bear on human social behavior, including interpersonal conflict as manifested in homicide and nonlethal violence. Grounding their research in basic evolutionary theories of sexual selection, inclusive fitness, and sexual conflict, they have developed a variety of hypotheses about the determinants of variations in parental solicitude, spousal conflict, risk proneness, and discounting of the future to generate hypotheses about epidemiological risk factors for violence, and have applied these hypotheses to the study of homicide. Wilson and Daly are founding members of the Human Behavior & Evolution Society and have both served, at different times, as its president, as well as having co-edited the society’s journal Evolution & Human Behavior for 10 years. They are authors of Sex, Evolution and Behavior (1978, 1983), Homicide (1988), and The Truth about Cinderella (1998). They were elected fellows of the Royal Society of Canada in 1998.
